DESCRIPTION

Located in the harbor of Hyères, the commune of La Londe-les Maures is located in Provence-Alpes-Côte d'Azur, in the department of Var. Close to Toulon and bordering Bormes-les-Mimosas, it offers direct access to the Mediterranean Sea.

Populated since the Gallo-Roman period, the territory became a full-fledged municipality only during the Middle Ages, in the eleventh century. The exploitation of the mines makes the richness of this dependent city until the XIXth century of the city of Hyères. Following the French Revolution in the 18th century, the commune of La Londe-les Maures changed its face and saw its bourgeoisie transform itself. Many private mansions are built, and the arrival of the railway a few years later gives the city a real tourist attraction. The natural heritage is not lacking in La Londe-les-Maures and the quality of the beaches of the city make the fame of this resort on the Riviera.

Favored by a microclimate, the seaside resort of La Londe-les Maures is particularly appreciated for its beaches. There are four of them, covering more than three kilometers of the Mediterranean coast: Miramar, Tamaris, Pellegrin and finally the Argentière, which is awarded the Blue Flag label for the quality of its waters and its infrastructures. Offshore, it is possible to access the islands of gold via sea links. You will be able to admire the charms of Porquerolles, Port-Cros or the island of Levant.
