IN BRIEF

Ostensible habitable as long as you don't need the bathroom urgently, this is a great opportunity to unite two small 40m2 village houses which have been sitting back-to-back ignoring each other for the last 100+ years. Plenty of potential to start with 80m2 on I floor and then develop the cellars at ground level for the rear south facing garden and/or convert the loft space to give roughly 160m2 habitable

DESCRIPTION

The work required is fairly fundamental but surprisingly cheap especially if you're a keen DIYer? Replace the wooden floor in the first house, put in a concrete floor in the 2nd house and repair the lovely vaulted ceilings in the cellar.

New windows all round, insulation, electrics, plumbing / heating connect it up to the mains sewage in the road outside. Not very difficult but budget for around 100k€ for a lovely modern village home with the traditional character of the Bauges national park

Totally flexible to make 1 big house or 2 houses for a good holiday letting income.
