IN BRIEF

This 18th century farmhouse is well secluded at the end of a farm track, 700 m from the river Auvézère, with its own meadow and a fabulous view. The property is marked on the cadastra Napoléon of 1811 and has changed little, the difference lies in the quality of its restoration of its interior to a high standard of local craftsmanship and that exposes not just period features such as beams or the large stone fireplace etc but faithfully maintains that property's authenticity while keeping comfort to a premium. The rooms and windows are open plan to get the best of its views while exteriorly there is a terrace each side that respectively takes advantage of the morning sun across farmland and the evening sun panorama above the pool.
