NOTES

DESCRIPTION

This magnificent watermill steeped in history, with its canals and private island, offers you the opportunity to acquire a work of French cultural heritage and participate in its preservation. Founded around 1600, it features an impressive, restored Sagebien wheel with operational machinery, an inlet canal, a spillway with its discharge canal, an outlet canal, and diversion bays. The footbridge and sluice gates have been refurbished. The boat-shaped island features a henhouse and a dovecote used as a play area.

The adjoining house, tastefully renovated and with a south-facing facade, comprises on the first floor: an entrance hall, an attractive fitted kitchen-diner with a granite fireplace converted into a hood, a central island with a washbasin and a butcher's block, and a hallway with a cupboard containing a gas boiler for heating and hot water supply.

On the other side of the entrance hall, there's a double living room with marble fireplace and toilet. It would be possible to create a direct access to the mill from the kitchen, opening onto a space that could become a living room with a view of the monumental wheel.

The staircase leads to a landing with a beautiful master bedroom with en-suite shower room, two further bright bedrooms, toilet and a spacious bathroom with bath, shower and storage cupboard.

The attic could be converted to create two or three additional bedrooms and a shower room.

The double-leaf front door and windows are double-glazed.

On the side of the house, a charming waterside terrace...
