DESCRIPTION

This 150 m² (1,615 sq ft) house with integrated south-west-facing conservatory is set in a quiet, wooded environment in a luxury residential development on the edge of the Marly forest. It is built on 1100 m² (1,937 sq ft) of wooded, fully enclosed grounds.

On the left, the entrance hall leads to the 56m² double living room with cathedral ceiling, warmed by a beautiful open stone fireplace, extended by the dining room and the veranda area, all double-glazed and overlooking the garden.

On the right side of the hall are two bedrooms, one with a balcony, a bathroom (need to be updated) and a separate WC.

In the middle of the living room part and the sleeping areas is the separate, fully-equipped kitchen.

On the garden level are two large areas that are currently used as bedrooms and could easily be converted into independent flats with dedicated external access.

°° This house is fully secured by a Vérisure alarm system, with two separate vehicle entrances and one pedestrian entrance. High hedges conceal the house from its immediate surroundings, ensuring a high degree of discretion.

An perfect investment for young professionals working in Paris or La Défense, looking for a pleasant place to live away from the hustle and bustle of the city.
