NOTES

DESCRIPTION

This old water mill is accessed from the main road through iron gates. There is an attractive tree-lined and gravelled driveway approach to the house where there is ample parking available. On the right side of the driveway is a lake of approximately 600 square metres fed by streams which border the property on two sides and once fed the ancient water mill, evidence of which is to be found in one of the cellars. The house is double glazed throughout with the added benefit of triple glazing on the east side. It benefits from a heat pump, substantial insulation and a new roof to the rear of the house.
